COOLIDGE STILL GAINS VOTES

RECTOR WILL LEAVE
HEALTH WORK SOON
TO PREACH GOSPEL

Assistant Engineer To Begin Studies At Emory

QUITS SERVICE
DECEMBER 20TH

Expresses His Regret
At Leaving the Tenn. Valley

On December 20 the resignation of N. H. Rector, assistant engineer of the Alabama State Board of Health assigned to the Tennessee Valley, with headquarters in the Twin Cities, becomes effective, and January 2, 1925 Mr. Rector will enter Emory University as a theological student, preparatory to entering the ministry of the Methodist church.

Mr. Rector will remain at Emory for two years, where he has been awarded a scholarship.

In connection with his determination to give up his work with the state, Mr. Rector has received many expressions of regret, but all wishing him success in the ministry just as he has been a success as a civil engineer.

Dr. S. W. Welch of Montgomery, chairman of the Alabama Board of health, the engineer's chief has written that it is with much regret, the resignation of Mr. Rector will be accepted.

Dr. W. K. Sharpe of Florence, an official of the board of health who recently served under Mr. Rector when that officer had charge of the anti-malaria fight at Muscle Shoals, apropos of the determination of Mr. Rector to leave the service of the state health department, gave high praise to the ability, energy and faithfulness to duty of the retiring engineer.

Mr. Rector stated Tuesday that in many ways he regretted exceedingly to give up his work and associations in the Tennessee Valley saying he was never associated with more friendly or agreeable people, but that as he felt a distinct call to the ministry he would begin his new work with no regrets.

Mr. Rector was prepared at John's Hopkins University, for his profession as a civil engineer. When he came to the Tennessee Valley he succeeded Colonel William D. Wrightstone who for a year or so was assistant engineer for the state health department.

George A. Sneed Called To Reward

George A. Sneed, aged 48, passed to a heavenly reward on Sunday November 2 after a persevering and God fearing life started in Lawrence County many years ago. The deceased passed away at his home in Austonville. Funeral services were conducted at the Rock Springs cemetery near Mt. Hope, Ala., by Rev. Noble R. Edwards pastor of the First Christian church of Albany. The deceased was a member and an elder in the church.

Mr. Sneed is survived by his wife Myrtle O. Sneed, three daughters, Helen, Evelyn and Lucile, one son, Theo, his mother Mrs. A. J. Sneed of Mt. Hope three sisters, Mrs. G. G. Thompson, of Vinemont, Ala., Mrs. Chas A. Nance, and Miss Nora Sneed of Mt. Hope. Six brothers: Walter, Henry and Ben Sneed of Mt. Hope, A. J. Sneed Jr. of Birmingham, R. E. Sneed of Albany and Charles Sneed of Carbondale, Ill. and a host of other relatives and friends.

VOTE OF CONFIDENCE

(Associated Press)
PARIS, Nov. 5.—The chamber of deputies yesterday gave Premier Herriot a vote of confidence 410 to 170 when upon the re-convening of parliament he demanded the indefinite postponement of interpellations, chief of which was criticism of the government for renewing the Morgan loan to aid France in stabilizing exchange.

CONTROL OF CONGRESS IS HANGING IN THE BALANCE

LATE RETURNS ONLY SWELL THE TIDE OF COOLIDGE'S VICTORY

Result In Doubt in But Eight of All States In the Union

WESTERN STATES TAKEN BY G. O. P.

La Follette Territory Fails to Live Up to Expectations

(Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—As returns from the states continued to roll in today they served only to swell the tide upon which Calvin Coolidge is riding to an apparent overwhelming victory over his two opponents in the 1924 presidential contest.

In eight states, all of them in the west, the result still was in doubt at mid-day, but the president had a lead in seven of them, including Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota, which followers of Senator Robert M. La Follette had expected to give the independent candidate their electoral votes.

Returns in the congressional contests were slow and at noon they still were insufficient to show whether Mr. Coolidge will have a real working majority in the house or senate.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—With returns from many states still incomplete President Coolidge appears to have been selected over his two opponents by a rolling tide of ballots mounting up toward the Harding landslide of 1920 but the returns still were insufficient early today to show whether he will have a working majority of republicans in congress.

Little more than half the senate and house contests had been finally reported, with the result so far showing a net republican gain of a dozen representatives and probably three or four senators.

The bugaboo of throwing the presidential election into congress was chased away with the rapidity which the large block of electoral either fell into the Coolidge column or gave seemingly unmistakable evidence of going there, as the returns continued to come in.

John W. Davis succeeded in capturing certainly only states generally reckoned as irrevocably democratic. Even at that he lost Kentucky on the face of incomplete returns, although Cox had carried it against Harding in 1920.

The same returns indicated that he had brought back into the democratic fold two of the states taken away by Harding—Oklahoma and Tennessee. Senator La Follette, although polling a popular vote of about 4,000,000, which approximates Roosevelt's total when he led a third party movement in 1912, was assured the electoral vote of only one state, his own Wisconsin. Roosevelt captured 88 votes in 1912, enough to defeat his republican opponent, Taft, and elect the democratic adversary, Wilson.

It was estimated that Coolidge polled 18,000,000 popular votes, two million more than was given to Harding. Davis, it was estimated had 8,000,000 against 9,000,000 for Cox. Many more voters trooped to the polling places and dropped their ballots yesterday than ever before in the history of the nation.

As the returns stood early today the votes in the electoral college, either by definite count, concession by rival managers or indicated trend were classified this way, for the three principal contenders: Coolidge 343, Davis 129, Roosevelt 127.

DAVIS TELEGRAPHS CONGRATULATIONS

Thanked By President For His Expression "Of Patriotism"

(Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—John W. Davis today congratulated President Coolidge on his election to the presidency.

"Permit me to congratulate you," Mr. Davis telegraphed "on your sweeping victory and to express the hope that your administration may, by its success, insure to welfare of the country."

President Coolidge sent this reply: "Please accept my thanks for your message and appreciation of the patriotic sentiments you express."

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Ellen V. Davis, wife of John W. Davis, telegraphed, Mrs. Coolidge today a message of congratulations on her husband's victory.

Mrs. Davis said: "Please let me congratulate you on your husband's victory."

AL SMITH DEFEATS COL. ROOSEVELT

Coolidge and Dawes to Get Plurality Of Nearly Million

(Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Coolidge and Dawes swept the entire Empire state in the election yesterday on the basis of incomplete returns by a plurality of approximately 825,000, but Governor Alfred E. Smith, Democrat, demonstrated his personal popularity by winning the gubernatorial nomination over Theodore Roosevelt, Republican, by a plurality of approximately 115,000.

President Coolidge's total vote with 401 districts, out of 7,563, missing, was 1,750,281, as compared with 930,459 for John W. Davis and 446,730 for Senator La Follette. The vote for governor was the feature of the election. Colonel Roosevelt made a great run up-state and captured Syracuse, Buffalo, Poughkeepsie, Binghamton, Gloversville, Rome and other cities, some of which cities were carried by the governor two years ago.

Smith's tremendous vote in the metropolis overcame Roosevelt's big lead in the up-state counties.

Aged Man Gone After Long Useful Life

William B. Newsom aged 85 years died at his residence on 5th avenue on Tuesday evening at 5 o'clock. Mr. Newsom had led a life of constructive work for his fellowman and was one of the pioneers in this territory. The deceased was a member of the Christian church where he was actively engaged for some years in active work for the Master.

The deceased is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary A. Newsom, four daughters, Mrs. M. A. Ellis, Mulberry Fla., Mrs. William H. Cranford, Jasper, Ala., Mrs. C. A. Dunnivant, Monroe, La., and Mrs. William McJilton Birmingham. Three sons also survive: Paul B., Percy W., and Roy B. Newsom of Sheffield.

Funeral services will be conducted at the residence on Thursday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The Reverend J. H. Hill and Reverend W. P. Reeves will officiate. The Masonic Lodge will be in charge and interment will be made at Oakwood cemetery.

SEVERAL CHANGES ARE EXPECTED IN OFFICIAL FAMILY

More Than 1 Member Of Cabinet May Quit Government Post

SEC. SLEMP WILL TAKE VACATION

President To Be Free To Select His Own Cabinet

(Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Several changes are expected in the administration personnel when President Coolidge takes the oath of office next March 4.

There have been definite indications that certain officers high in the government desire, for various reasons to retire to private life, including some cabinet members.

About the first break expected in the official family is the resignation of C. Bascomb Slemp, secretary to the President. Mr. Slemp has played an important part in the campaign as well as handling the duties of his office and he is said to want a rest. It is understood that he is planning a vacation, which will keep him in the south for the winter.

Mr. Coolidge naturally will be free to select his own cabinet for his full term. Those members who desire to leave are expected to communicate their wishes formally to him before next March. The resignation of cabinet officers are always in the hands of the president and although these may be formally presented by them at any time, Mr. Coolidge is expected to re-iterate the declaration he made upon assuming office on the death of President Harding that no resignation be tendered now.

Some changes also are expected in various divisions of the executive department, to put into effect, plans which President Coolidge is understood to feel that are necessary, but no wholesale shifting of government officers is in sight.

Such changes as come about will occur largely in the natural course of events.

BIG CROWD PRESENT AT DAILY'S ELECTION 'PARTY' LAST NIGHT

Republicans Have Very Enjoyable Time As Landslide Looms

INTEREST HIGH IN NEW YORK VOTE

Daily Gives Party But Its Friends Provide Refreshment

Hundreds of people gathered around The Daily building last night to receive returns from the national election—and received another story of a republican landslide.

Among the crowd were those who were those who were keeping cool with Coolidge, those battling with Bob and others democratizing with Davis. The Daily entertained last night, but the republican brethren seemed to be the only invited guests who thoroughly enjoyed the party.

The Associated Press leased wire, which so rapidly and accurately flashed the returns to The Daily where they were, in turn, flashed upon the screen, opened at five o'clock. Returns were slow for a few minutes, but as the nation began taking count of its ballots, the volume of returns increased and by dark they were pouring in.

All eyes were on New York, for the democrats and republicans alike felt that much of the success of their campaigns rested on that state. New York bulletins were scanned eagerly. They provided probably the greatest disappointment of the evening for the crowd, most of whom were democrats. From the first President Coolidge jumped into the lead and maintained it throughout the counting.

Much interest was shown also in the race between Roosevelt and Smith and the closeness of the fight as the evening wore on added to the interest.

The eastern returns, were the first to come in by virtue of the fact that their time is earlier than is ours. They all favored Coolidge and the enthusiasm of the crowd of onlookers was dampened.

The democrats, however found some satisfaction in the returns from the solid South, which appears now to be more solid than ever. They were elated when Davis went into the lead in the Tennessee balloting.

Ma Fergusons' race for governor in Texas also attracted its share of interest. Early returns showed her trailing her republican opponent, but the lead soon was switched and Mrs. Ferguson rolled up a comfortable margin of victory.

There appeared to be many La Follette supporters in the crowd, but they too, were given little opportunity to give vent to their enthusiasm. It was a little too early today to tell just what inroads La Follette had made on the voting strength of the old line parties, but he seemed to have drawn more heavily from the democrats than he did from the republicans.

The returns continued to come in until about midnight, when The Daily flashed a reluctant "goodnight" to a fairly large sized group still stood by and watched the screen intently.

The Daily gave the party, but its friends provided the refreshments for the workers in the office who looked after the details. Roy Nash, of the Coca Cola Bottling works, brought in a case of Coca Cola; The Albany Drug company was liberal with drinks and cigars; the Piggy Wiggly provided some very fine apples; W. J. Meisinger, secretary of the chamber of commerce, provided enough peanuts to feed even a larger cage of monkeys. The Daily is duly grateful to them, as it is also to Schimmel and Hunter for permission to use the front of their building for the screen upon which the returns were flashed; to Chief of Police Hendrix and his men who handled traffic so skillfully on the avenue that, despite the crowd, there were no accidents; and to Joe Brazleton and Glenn Harvey, operators respectively of the projection machine and the telegraph instrument.

Heavy Scrimmage is the Mid-Week Dish Of Three Local Teams In Saturday Card

With the approaching conflict of another Friday and Saturday ahead the Albany high school, the Decatur high school and the Independents of the Louisville and Nashville shops are going through a heavy grind during the middle of the week in preparation for the hard road that is ahead.

The high schools scrimmaged at the Decatur high school field on Tuesday afternoon with Albany carrying the election by an overwhelming majority. The Decatur line which is even lighter than the Albany line gave way before an intrepid attack of the Albany backfield and line. The opponent for the weekend for the Decatur team has not yet been announced while Albany goes to Hartselle to engage the Morgan County high school battle squadron.

The Independents engaged in a snappy signal drill on Tuesday and came back today against the Albany high school with coach Sample and Coach Lively looking the men over for defects that must be ironed out before the arrival of the heavy Florence Normal eleven.

The Florence aggregation will put in an appearance Saturday at Cooper-Wells field and while the local lads know that a heavy battering is in store for them they believe confidently that they will win with the

Lighting Laws Simple And Easy

HOME LIGHTING ESSAY CONTEST, LESSON NO. 1

To take advantage of the opportunities offered him, the householder must have a knowledge of the primary laws governing illumination. These are simple, and when once understood will stand between him and many faults in his illuminating system which might otherwise exist even though he spent much money buying new lamps, brackets and chandeliers.

Most essential among these rules is one that says no light-source (lamp-filament) should be visible to the eye. If a lamp be so high that it is out of the line of vision this rule may be modified; not otherwise; and even then it may well be frosted or enameled.

Among light rays passing from lamp to eye, those which are horizontal or nearly horizontal are the most injurious to the eyes. There are few horizontal rays in natural lighting; thought the light of the sun be more intense than any supplied by indoor light source, yet its rays are strained through the atmosphere surrounding the earth, and thus broken up and diffused.

They are seldom horizontal unless reflected from water or snow; then they become painfully dazzling. Moreover, eyes are naturally shielded from the light of sun and sky by forehead, brows and lashes; but these shades fail to protect from horizontal rays.

Light from sources within the ordinary range of vision therefore must be broken and diffused as to be turned from light rays into light glow.

Light rays must not only be prevented from shining directly from source to eye; they must not be allowed to fall on walls, desks, pages of book or other brilliant surface and to reflect into the eyes in glare. This is a wide-spread fault in artificial lighting, and it is said to be more injurious than direct light rays, because it is more insidious and one does not so quickly shield eyes from its influence.

Thus it becomes apparent that light as it leaves its source, the electric lamp, must be directed and diffused, so as to lose as little as possible of its illuminating power, yet so as to prevent all forms of glare.

Illumination of a room can be accomplished in two ways; by the installation of a central ceiling fixture of sufficient intensity to make it possible to read or work in every part of the room served; or by the use instead of several fixtures which give localized light to certain spots, leaving other areas in shadow. For ideal illumination of more important rooms both central fixture and smaller brackets and lamps are required so as to adapt illumination to varying needs and moods.

While this may appear at first blush to require a somewhat lavish expenditure for equipment, some consideration of the importance of adequate light for all living purposes will show that it is after all a small expenditure as compared with some of the phases of furnishing which have less real value to family welfare. Pictures, rugs, hangings and exquisite furniture are frequently indulged in homes whose incomes are not large, while lights which serve or destroy vision, upon which no price can be placed are stinted to niggardly proportions.

gods of chance playing no favorites.

Braswell is a newcomer in Independent ranks and looked well in a backfield berth that has been made vacant by the absence of Hartselle who is still nursing troubles from the Falkville tilt. The remainder of the lineup is in apparently the best of condition and spoiling for the fight that is scheduled to be played at Cooper-Wells field on Saturday afternoon at 3:30.

136, LaFollette 13, doubtful 39.

The number necessary to a choice is 266. Among the states in which the returns were not sufficiently comprehensive for classification in the columns of any candidate, Coolidge was leading in Arizona with 10,000 votes; in Idaho with LaFollette second; in Minnesota with LaFollette second; in Montana with LaFollette second; in Nevada with LaFollette second; in North Dakota with LaFollette second; in South Dakota with LaFollette second.

Should the Coolidge lead in those states be sustained by the final count it would add 36 to his total and he would have 379 electoral votes.

Choir Singer Held In Robbery Case

(Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Francis Winfield Hart, 24 years old, a singer in a church choir and living in the apartment of his pastor, was arrested by police here yesterday and accused of a long series of jimmy robberies, which have been keeping the northwest section of the city on edge.

Police declare Hart admitted premeditation of a dozen robberies and they also said loot estimated to be worth $15,000 was found in his room. The Rev. M. B. MacBryde in whose home Hart lived, said the latter, after a disagreement a month ago with his parents, had sought his assistance and that he had taken him under his own roof and had meanwhile interested himself in obtaining work for him.

Georgia Lady Says She Has Grown Stronger by Taking Cardui—Thoroughly Convinced of Its Merits.

Claytonville, Ga.—In a statement which she gave at her home on R. F. D. 1, here, Mrs. T. A. Copeland said: "I have, I believe, avoided a good deal of suffering by the use of Cardui, and am thoroughly convinced that it has been of great benefit to me."

"Before the birth of two of my children, I grew so weak and nervous I could hardly go, and suffered... I had a friend who told me of Cardui, so the next time when I grew so weak and run-down I began to use it. I used it three months. I grew stronger and less nervous. The baby was stronger and a better baby, and I really believe it was because I built up my strength with this splendid tonic."

Cardui has been in successful use for more than forty years. Thousands of women have written to tell of the beneficial results obtained by taking Cardui, and to recommend it to others. It is a mild, harmless, purely vegetable medicinal preparation—a product of practical experience, scientific investigation and pharmaceutical skill. Sold everywhere.

INTERESTING MEET HELD BY PYTHIANS

Hermione Lodge Hears Several Speakers In Addresses

Hermione Lodge No. 16, Knights of Pythias was called to order promptly on Monday evening with an exceptionally large attendance. Several were present who have not attended the regular conventions for some number of years, and since Hermione has adopted "activity" as the Lodge watch word and a number of the members have volunteered to make personal interviews with the absentees, a new era in Pythianism is expected in the near future.

The membership of Hermione has unlimited advantages in that the frequent meetings make for a better understanding of each other's needs and we are able to be more helpful and sympathetic also less critical of each other's shortcomings," one member stated yesterday.

Among the many visitors Monday evening was L. C. Graham of Central Lodge, No. 12, Montgomery, Ala. Mr. Graham was once a very active member of Hermione so it is easily understood why the interesting talk made by him was so highly appreciated.

It is well known that a drive will be conducted Nov. 17-24 for the purpose of raising funds for the Alabama Pythian Widows and Orphans Home at Montgomery, so the Chancellor Commander A. L. Shelton, appointed the following committee, who will function according to plans already made. H. C. Abshire, S. D. Armstrong, W. M. Bailey, T. M. Dix, T. C. Fitzgerald, W. J. Garnett, J. D. Garren, W. T. Giles, B. D. Meadors, J. D. Sharp and Lester Sheffield.

Numerous application for membership by initiation are being received which is believed to be a result of the widening of the Widows and Orphans Home along with the many other valuable features of the fraternity. There is a feeling of optimism prevalent among the faithful members who have shown unusual interest and a keen appreciation for the principles of order, and in the history of Hermione there was never a better outlook for the permanency of its membership.

Following the disposal of considerable routine business and a general discussion of various other things to come before the lodge, John A. Thomason was called upon, as had been previously arranged, to deliver an address on the Pythian Widows and Orphans Home, soon to be under construction at Montgomery.

Mr. Thomason having been active in the promotion and maintenance of such institutions for a number of years, made a very interesting talk in regard to the orphanage. The wonderful success of the efforts already put forth in so short a time was considered by Mr. Thomason as an unusual feat. He also stressed the importance of the disposal of considerable routine business and a general discussion of various other things to come before the lodge, John A. Thomason was called upon, as had been previously arranged, to deliver an address on the Pythian Widows and Orphans Home, soon to be under construction at Montgomery.

Alexander Hears Report By Radio

The many friends here of T. H. Alexander, former Albany postmaster and now political writer on the Nashville Tennessean, will be interested in the following story appearing in this morning's issue of The Tennessean: Like Moses who led the children of Israel to the borders of the Promised Land and could not enter the glories thereof, T. H. Alexander, The Tennessean's political writer, after fighting for a democratic victory in Tennessee, could not enjoy watching the election returns Tuesday night, for he is ill with influenza at his home.

But "Alex," had a taste of excitement, just as Moses viewed the land from afar, for through the kindness of C. E. Gardner of the Houck Piano company, a radiola was installed and he heard the returns in his sick room. It wasn't quite the same as the music of telegraph instruments and typewriter keys, but it was infinitely better for a man with fever and an honest-to-goodness case of influenza.

Few if any democrats have labored longer and harder for the victory of the ticket than "Alex" and none could have been missed more than he was last night in The Tennessean's office. portance of such an institution in that, the public is very critical and will be more impressed by the exemplification of Pythian principles towards each other than by mountains of words telling what those principles stand for. The speaker made it known that it was his earnest belief that the true Pythian spirit prevails in this Grand Domain and for this reason he can very clearly see the dawning of a brighter day for Pythianism in Alabama.

As for all the good it does the mud the politicians sling had as well be plain dust.

Most of us preach diversification and some of us practice it, but cotton remains king just the same.

Honorable Andy Gump awoke this morning with an extremely sore head, but unlike a great many who are likewise disappointed in election results, he has no sore toes, he took his beating like a man.

Now let the mudslinging stop, the whole nation waits for President Coolidge for a four years of results. Wait until 1928 before we begin digging up the dead past and peeping under shrouds. Of course we are Democratic and we were defeated but we shall stand back of the administration for a program of peace and plenty, prosperity and unity.

All stirred up nationally for the past few months now let us turn our hands to the furrow and turnover some home industries and some home movements that will count something for the year. A bridge to build, a hospital wing to complete, a chamber of commerce to support, good laws to observe the community chest movement, Y. M. C. A. drive, Salvation army drive, Red Cross roll call. Let Albany-Decatur show some results for 1924. Let's get ahead, lets build.

We are glad to have had you at our little election party and we are happy that you had an opportunity to see some real service from the Associated Press, the finest news service in the world. It would have been a pleasure to have had you in the office, but you would all have liked to work and there wasn't enough for you to do. Thank you again for your co-operation in remaining on the outside you allowed us to give you a better service.

THE PEOPLE WILL NOT FORGET AND G. O. P. VICTORY MAY BE SHORT LIVED

The result of the vote Tuesday does not mean that the American people approve of the official record of the Republican party, most especially that part of the record that is full of shame and scandal.

The American people are a tolerant people. They are strong on disbelieving the other fellow is totally bad, so for the time they have overlooked the Teapot Dome scandal and others, quite as bad or worse and elected the Republican candidates.

And it was a general feeling that Mr. Coolidge was against the field and due to win. Americans have a weakness for backing the probable winner.

Besides business, especially for the farmers took a turn for the better at the psychological moment.

The people will not forget the record of the Republicans. They are treasuring up wrath against the day of wrath and unless there is a quick and unmistakable effort on the part of the newly elected officials to live down the old bad record and to make amends, the present overwhelming victory for the G. O. P. will be turned into defeat the next time the voters go to the polls.

AMENDMENT ELECTION GIVES FREE HAND TO SEVERAL COMMUNITIES

The overwhelming majorities given the seven proposed amendments to the Alabama constitution indicate that the people are willing to exempt its fighting men from poll taxes and to give the people of the state a free hand in their local affairs.

The poll tax exemption for ex-soldiers and ex-sailors is the first of the seven new amendments. The second amendment gives farmers the right to issue bonds for drainage purposes. The third gives Mobile county the right to levy and collect additional taxes for school purposes. The fourth amendment gives special taxing privileges to several cities and towns of the state. The fifth amendment gives the county of Mobile the right to make special bond issues for public road improvement.

The sixth amendment gives to Walker county the right to vote a special road tax, and the seventh amendment will give to Town Creek School district No. 59 special taxing privileges, similar privileges to Landersville School district No. 23 and like privileges to Moulton School district No. 28. This amendment says that each of those districts shall have the right and power by vote of a majority of the qualified electors of such district at an election held for that purpose to levy and collect for the purpose of acquiring, constructing or repairing of school buildings in such districts or paying for school buildings already built, a tax of not over five mills in any one year, in addition to all other taxes now authorized by law. The election in such district to determine whether or no such tax shall be levied shall be called, held and conducted as now provided by law for calling, holding and conducting of elections to determine whether or not a three-mill district school tax shall be levied and collected.

ELECTION PARTY A SUCCESS;THANKS TO ALL WHO PARTICIPATED

Lots of folks who saw the election returns flashed from the windows of the Daily building were loud in their praise of the Daily for giving the party free of charge and for giving the most splendid service in the city on election night. It isn't out of the ordinary that the service should be the best and it isn't out of the ordinary that the services should be given free to the public. It is the way of the Associated Press. The Associated Press is owned by the membership and one member has just as much voice as another. The "A. P." has it over the rest of the services, in other words it is rather exclusive. When a newspaper applies for admission into the service he does not place his money on the table, rather he places his name into the hands of the organization to be voted upon. His name is either accepted or rejected as it pleases the majority rule of the membership. The whole matter is a process very much like joining with a select society, a paper must have the reputation and character to gain admittance. This does not mean that papers that are non-members of the Associated Press are dishonest or carry an unsavory reputation for that isn't true, there are other newspapers who prefer other services, but it does mean that to get into the Associated Press a newspaper must have something more than the cost of the service.

The Daily didn't give all the party on Tuesday night. On the inside of the office, the Coca-Cola company, Piggly-Wiggly, the Chamber of Commerce, and the Albany Drug company functioned with the proper sustenance to keep the election workers going until past the midnight hour. There were other individual donors whose little gifts were appreciated. The Daily also takes this opportunity to thank the Schmale-Hunter Furniture company for the use of the building on which the screen for the party was stretched. We hope that we may be called upon to reciprocate.

TAXES PAID FOR GOOD ROADS ARE ECONOMY, NOT AN EXPENSE

As Alabamians have gone to the court houses in the sixty-seven counties recently to pay taxes and secure licenses for their automobiles there has been some complaining about the high cost of government in this state. These people overlook or do not know, however, that they are among the most fortunate people in the world. At least, they are the most favored people in the United States for Alabama pays less taxes than any other state.

It is a fact worthy of consideration, too, that the money we pay out for good roads, to which the automobile tax is applied, is not an expense, but an economy. J. Edward Cox, president of the Commercial National Bank of High Point, N. C., and chairman of the highway commission of that state, has recently compiled some very interesting figures along this line, and he figures that North Carolina is saving at least $7,000,000 a year in the cost of gasoline alone through the substitution of good roads for bad roads. He says:

"From July, 1922, to July, 1923, there were 247,612 cars and they used 112,365,000 gallons of gas, or 545 gallons per car.

"The difference in saving the latter year was 66 gallons each. At 25 cents a gallon, this would make $16.50 per car; 247,612 cars last year at $16.50 per car per year would be a total saving in gasoline alone of $4,085,598, provided the people did not travel any more mileage on good roads than they had the year before on poorer roads.

"We confidently estimate that this year, July, 1924, to July, 1925, there will be 300,000 automobiles in the state and that since the roads are mostly completed the saving will be much greater. Personally, I am satisfied that the saving in gas to each individual car this year will average $25 per car. Three hundred thousand cars would make a saving to our people of $7,500,000."

B. C. Forbes, the noted financial writer, in commenting on these figures estimates that a saving of $25 on each of America's 16,000,000 automobiles and trucks would mean a saving of $400,000 a year in the aggregate. And that is on gas alone. How much more is saved on wear and tear, in accidents, in time, etc., is beyond calculation. It is safe to say, however, that a car will last twice as long in a section where good roads obtain generally as in a section where the car's delicate machinery is daily subjected to mud, dust, rocks and ruts, such as we have in many of the counties of Alabama. We are, therefore, paying a heavy tax because we do not have good roads.

North Carolina has the same system for road improvement that was adopted by Alabama under the Kilby administration. Up there they levy a three-cent tax on gasoline and apply the automobile license tax to the highway fund. But while we issued $25,000,000 in bonds to build good roads, North Carolina voted $50,000,000 at first then $15,000,000 more and is now planning to spend an additional $35,000,000 for this same purpose.

Mr. Cox, the hard headed banker who is at the head of North Carolina's road system, says that he was at first skeptical about this proposition, but that the more he has studied the question the more it has appealed to him as sound business economy—"a safe business proposition that is of untold value to the state." And when one considers the remarkable growth North Carolina has had in recent years by reason of her investments in good roads and education, one is inclined to believe Mr. Cox is justified in his optimism.—Anniston Star.

AMUSEMENTS"THE VANITY BOX" COMING

Geo. E. Wintz, who sponsors "Vanity Box" which will be staged at the Masonic theater Tuesday, November 11th has outdone any of his previous efforts in staging this attraction which it is claimed represents an investment of over one hundred thousand dollars. While his more modest efforts with "Listen Irene", "Eve" and "Shuffle Along" earned him much favor with the theater going public "Vanity Box" at once places him in the front rank of American extravaganza entrepreneurs, along side of Flo Ziegfeld, Chas. B. Dillingham, Henry W. Savage, George White and the Shuberts.

Mr. Wintz has packed "Vanity Box" so full of magnificent features that it is not an easy task to winnow out the more important.

What is the most vital period in American history?

There may be a division of opinion between the Revolution, the Civil War the winning of the west, and so on, but certainly the last named has had a tremendous bearing upon the development of the American nation.

The hardy pioneers who wrested from the earth the yellow metal, the sacrifices made by the homeseekers who braved the hardships and perils of the miles of prairie, mountain and river to gain the western promise and—these facts bulk large in the development of America.

This is the story of "The Covered Wagon," an epic of the great wagon trains, which in '48 crossed the plains to Oregon from Westport Landing, Mo.

This story, new to motion pictures, was made by James Cruze for Paramount with a wealth of detail, great spectacular effects and unlimited effort. It will be shown at the Princess theater next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Most of the picture is set in Utah and Nevada. A buffalo hunt was staged on Antelope Island, in the great Salt Lake where one of the largest herds of bison in the world is located. The Baker Ranch, in Snake Valley, Nevada, was employed for most of the backgrounds—an unbroken wilderness for the most part.

Five hundred covered "prairie schooners" were built or purchased, and thousands of Indians and other characters are employed. "The Covered Wagon" will be acclaimed one of the greatest dramas of the century—and one that will be an invaluable historical record. An excellent cast headed by J. Warren Kerrigan and Lois Wilson portray the various roles.

The old days so famous for adventure and down in history as the days of the birth of the American nation, have been turned back and are with us again in "The Covered Wagon," James Cruze's latest Paramount production which will be shown at the Princess theater Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. The great stretch of the western plains forms a most magnificent background and five hundred or more covered wagons or "prairie schooners," add greatness to this colossal picture. True, it is a love story, but this one is different. It is a love tale of the desert wastes long and enduring with its thrilling climax, leading to the re-union of the young couple, played by Lois Wilson and J. Warren Kerrigan, in a frontier homestead in Oregon. "The Covered Wagon" eclipses anything in pictures.

Attention, Prophets!STOP! LOOK!! LISTEN!!!

PROPHETS: This does not mean STOP and let the other prophet get all the petitions for our ceremonial, it does not mean LOOK for the other prophet to do all the work incidental to making this ceremonial a success, neither does it mean LISTEN to the praise the other prophet will get when it's all over, but it does mean STOP depending on the other prophet to get the necessary petitions, LOOK for those who have not already signed up and then LISTEN for the praise that we shall hear from the lips of Monarch Hagy when he declares the ceremonial to be the biggest success of his administration.

Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, Masonic Hall, Albany, we will have another meeting of the Albany-Decatur Grotto Club and it is the desire of the officers that every prophet, whether member of the Club, or not, be present and do your part in making this ceremonial on December 12th the biggest event ever staged in NORTH ALABAMA. Don't forget the date, place, and hour. Wear your fez.

Mrs. W. J. Garrett was a charming hostess of Saturday when she entertained the Saturday club at her home on Wells street.

The roll was answered to with "Political pleasantries." The study for the year is "travel" and the program at this meeting was in and around Washington, D. C. Mrs. Walton Hill prepared and read a paper on "the three platforms of the presidential candidates" which was especially interesting at this time. A word picture of the "Cathedral at Washington" was drawn in a very entertaining manner by Mrs. Preuit Carwright and she told many interesting facts about the Cathedral among them of Wilson's burial place. Mrs. E. F. Baird read a splendid paper on "Arlington" which was followed by a report by Mrs. Paul Morrison.

A delicious salad course was served after the program to these present the guests including Mrs. Spencer Garrett, Miss Mary Louise Green, Miss Sealey and Mrs. F. W. Beason.

PARTY FOR MISS PRIDE AT COUNTRY CLUB

Miss Helen Russell's party on Tuesday afternoon at the Valley Country Club was a most delightful affair and it was given in honor of Miss Mabel Pride a bride elect. The club rooms were prettier than usual, pink shades on electric lights and the flickering lights from pink and green candles placed on the groups of beautifully attired guests assembled at the card tables. Beautiful pink chrysanthemums and southern smilax were used in profusion to beautify the place.

Bridge was the diversion of the afternoon and Miss Margaret Speake was awarded the prize for high score, a candy jar. Miss Pride was the recipient of an honoree's gift a piece of sterling silver.

Those enjoying this occasion were Miss Jane Knight, Miss Polly Robinson, Miss Erin Draper, Miss Mary Harvey, Mrs. Stanley Wyatt, Miss Roline Teasley, Miss Bluetie Wallace, Mrs. Horace Dryden, Miss Elizabeth Ann Morrow, Mrs. George Wallace, Mrs. W. CHAPTER XVIII (continued)

The watchful Tsamanni considered that the time had come to buy her for his lord as he had been bidden.

"Three hundred," he said curtly, to make an end of matters, and—

"Four hundred," instantly piped a shrill voice behind him.

He spun round in his amazement and met the leering face of Ayoub. A murmur ran through the ranks of the buyers, the people craned their necks to catch a glimpse of this open-handed purchaser.

Yusuf the Tagareen rose up in a passion. He announced angrily that never again should the dust of the sok of Algiers defile his slippers, that never again would he come there to purchase slaves.

"By the Well of Zem-Zem," he swore, "all men are bewitched in this market. Four hundred philips for a Frankish girl! May Allah increase your wealth, for verily you'll need it."

And in his supreme disgust he stalked to the gates, and elbowed his way through the crowd, and so vanished from the sok.

Yet ere he was out of earshot her price had risen further. Whilst Tsamanni was recovering from his surprise at the competitor that had suddenly appeared before him, the dalai had lured an increased offer from the Turk.

"This a madness," the latter deplored. "But she pleaseth me, and should it seem good to Allah the Merciful to lead her into the True Faith she may yet become the light of my harem. Four hundred and twenty philips, then, O dalai, and Allah pardon me my prodigality."

Only his little speech coincided with Tsamanni with laconic eloquence rapped out—

"Five hundred."

"Allah!" cried the Turk, raising his hands to heaven, and, "Allah!" echoed the crowd.

"Five hundred and fifty," shrilled Ayoub's voice above the general din.

"Six hundred," replied Tsamanni, still unmoved.

And now such was the general hubbub provoked by these unprecedented prices that the dalai was forced to raise his voice and cry for silence.

When this was restored Ayoub at once raised the price to seven hundred.

"Eight hundred," snapped Tsamanni, showing at last a little heat.

"Nine hundred," replied Ayoub. Tsamanni swung round upon him again, white now with fury.

"Is this a jest, O father of wind?" he cried, and excited laughter by the taunt implicit in that appellation.

"An thou'rt the jester," replied Ayoub with forced calm, "thou'lt find the jest a costly one."

With a shrug Tsamanni turned again to the dalai.

"A thousand philips," said he shortly.

"Silence there!" cried the dalai again. "Silence, and praise Allah who sends good prices."

"One thousand and one hundred," said Ayoub the irrepressible.

And now Tsamanni not only found himself outbitten, but he had reached the outrageous limit appointed by Asad. He lacked authority to go further, dared not do so without first consulting the Basha. Yet if he left the sok for that purpose Ayoub would meanwhile secure the girl. He found himself between sword and wall.

On the one hand did he permit himself to be outbitten his master might visit upon him his disappointment. On the other, did he continue beyond the limit so idly mentioned as being far beyond all possibility, it might fare no less ill with him.

He turned to the crowd, waving his arms in furious gesticulation.

"By the beard of the Prophet, this bladder of wind and grease makes sport of us. He has no intent to buy. What man ever heard of the half of such a price for a slave girl?"

Ayoub's answer was eloquent; he produced a fat bag and flung it on the ground, where it fell with a mellow clink.

"There is my sponsor," he made answer, grinning in the very best of humors, savoring to the full his enemy's rage and discomfiture, and savoring it at no cost to himself.

"Shall I count out one thousand and one hundred philips, O dalai?"

"If the waseer Tsamanni is content."

"Dost thou know for whom I buy?" roared Tsamanni. "For the Basha himself, Asad-ed-Din, the exalted of Allah."

He advanced upon Ayoub with hands upheld.

"What shalt thou say to him, O dog, when he calls thee to account for daring to outbid him?"

But Ayoub remained unruffled before all this fury. He spread his fat hands, his eyes twinkling, his great lips pursed.

"How should I know, since Allah has not made me all-knowing? Thou shouldst have said so earlier. 'Tis thus I shall answer the Basha should he question me, and the Basha is just."

And so they stood glaring each at the other until the dalai called them back to the business that was to do.

"The price is now one thousand and one hundred philips. Will thou suffer defeat, O waseer?"

"Since Allah wills, I have no authority to go further."

"Then at one thousand and one hundred philips, Ayoub, she is—"

But the sale was not yet to be completed. From the dense and eager throng about the gates rang a crisp voice—

"One thousand and two hundred philips for the Frankish girl."

The dalai, who had conceived that the limits of madness had been already reached, stood gaping now in fresh amazement. The mob crowded and cheered and roared between enthusiasm and derision, and even Tsamanni brightened to see another champion enter the lists who perhaps would avenge him upon Ayoub. The crowd parted quickly to right and left, and through it into the open strode Sakr-el-Bahr. They recognized him instantly, and his name was shouted in acclamation by that idolizing multitude.

That Barbary name of his conveyed no information to Rosamund, and her back being turned to the entrance she did not see him. But she had recognized his voice, and she had shuddered at the sound. She could make nothing of the bidding, nor what the purpose that surely underlay it to account for the extraordinary excitement of the traders. Vaguely had she been wondering what das-

Is Your Tax Load Heavy Enough?

If Government Ownership of Railroads should ever be realized in this country, two additional tax burdens would inevitably be thrust upon the American people:

1. The Government would have to purchase the railroads at their present value of at least twenty billion dollars, because our constitutional guaranty provides against confiscation.
2. The taxes the railroads pay—a million dollars a day—would have to be assumed by the individual taxpayers, because government property is exempt from taxation.

Disregarding any assessment to pay off the enormous debt of twenty billions, interest thereon at 4% would amount to $800,000,000 per year; this added to the $365,000,000 railway taxes would make a total of $1,165,000,000 that would be saddled on to the people for the questionable benefit of owning the railroads.

The American people are now paying the overwhelming sum of seven billion, seven hundred million dollars in annual taxes. If the Government assumed control of the railroads, and the extra taxes required for their purchase and operation were levied, the annual tax bill of this country would run nearly ten billion dollars; an amount greater than any free people have ever been called upon to pay in the history of the world.
